STANDARD OF THE ORIENTAL UNIVERSITY.

The standard of the Oriental University, in its undergraduate schools, is higher even than that proposed by the "National Associations of State Universities" and of the "Carnegie Foundation." Our graduate non-resident schools, too, if properly understood and valued, are at least as high as any graduate schools in America, whether resident or non-resident.

To prove our standard, we have decided to use the terminology of the above association and fund adopted by many schools in the United States, so that it may be more readily understood and more correctly valued by them and others. In doing so, we have not had to raise a single requirement, our former requirements having been arranged more after those in European universities. In the following rules, the "unit" must be understood as meaning one course or subject taught for one year. The "year" must be understood as meaning nine months in the residence schools and twelve months in the non-residence schools. A "period" means 55 minutes in all schools and departments. By "matriculation" we mean entrance to the College proper, after completion of the whole academic or high school curriculum. By "entrance to university work" we mean the beginning of the collegiate junior year or the third year in college. A unit is taught 5 periods a week.

(1) To matriculate, the candidate must produce a certificate proving that he or she has finished a four years' course at a good residence high school, academy,

History of Eighth Year, 1910-11..

Better quarters are obtained at the new Kenois Building, 11th and G Streets, N. W., Washington, D. C., but the property at Dominion Heights is also retained. Board of Trustees and Resident Faculty are increased. Co-operation with congenial movements is effected. Mr. R. Moscau donates shares of stock, value $180 (par value $1,600); 500 acres on the coast of South America are offered to the University for the erection of a tropical experiment station and a Spanish-English preparatory school for the University. Scrips at 5 per cent interest, returnable in ten years, are issued for the Corporation, at denominations of $5, $25 and $100 each. Different courses taught so far: 165 (largest number of resident attendants in any single class, 23).

Principles and Aims of the Oriental University.

The Oriental University is orientalist, international, non-sectarian, and independent. It admits men and women of whatever race, nationality, or persuasion, and sets no age limit. It teaches undergraduates by resident, and graduates by non-resident courses. It is highly scientific and progressive. It trains for world-citizenship, drawing upon the knowledge of all nations for the common good. It is the only original University aiming at a practical exchange of the culture, inventions, and commodities of all nations.

Note.—Those marked with a (*) are non-resident examining professors of the Graduate Schools. At present, no undergraduate resident medical work is carried on, except at our Greenwich Medical Department, for lack of equipment and endowment of chairs. Wealthy people are requested to kindly grant larger donations, as it is quite important that foreigners coming to this University receive a proper medical training. Out going missionaries, too, need such education.

ORIENTAL UNIVERSITY

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB OF THE ORIENTAL UNIVERSITY.

CONSTITUTION.

Name.—The Cosmopolitan Club of the Oriental University.

Purpose: To unite all graduates and students of the Oriental University, and to support the work of said University.

BY-LAWS.

(1) Officers: A president, general secretary, treasurer, and a department secretary for each of the two departments, viz., the Graduate Department and the Undergraduate Department. All officers shall serve for one year only.

(2) Meetings: On the second Thursday in June, the annual meeting of the whole Club is held in the Oriental University, at Washington, D. C. Non-resident graduate students and alumni et alumnae hold meetings whenever and wherever convenient to them, separating in sections and districts. Resident students hold meetings every month, at the University.

(3) Objects. The objects of the meetings are, the reading and discussion of scientific papers, social intercourse, and the deliberation for the good of the Club and the University. Members should assist one another in every way to the best of their ability, especially as to social and scientific advancement.

(4) Membership: Any male or female student or graduate of the Oriental University has a right to join the Club, on payment of the annual fee of $1 and concurrence with the by-laws. No distinctions as to race, nationality, or denomination shall be recognized, nor shall ladies be excluded from any meeting.

(5) To carry out the purpose of the Club, 50 per cent of all income of the Club shall be donated to the treasury of the Oriental University toward the general expense fund, while the balance is used to defray expenses of the Club.

PERMANENT RULE.

Three-fourths of all members present or by proxy may alter or amplify the by-laws, at any annual meeting. The constitution can be changed only by unanimous vote of the Board of Trustees of the Oriental University Corporation.

Address the President of the Club,

Rev. Dr. CLAUDE E. SAYRE, Elliott, III.

UNIVERSITY AND CLUB PARAPHERNALIA.

For pins, pennants, caps, and gowns, address "Clerk of Paraphernalia," Oriental University Office, Kenosha, Bldg., Washington, D. C.

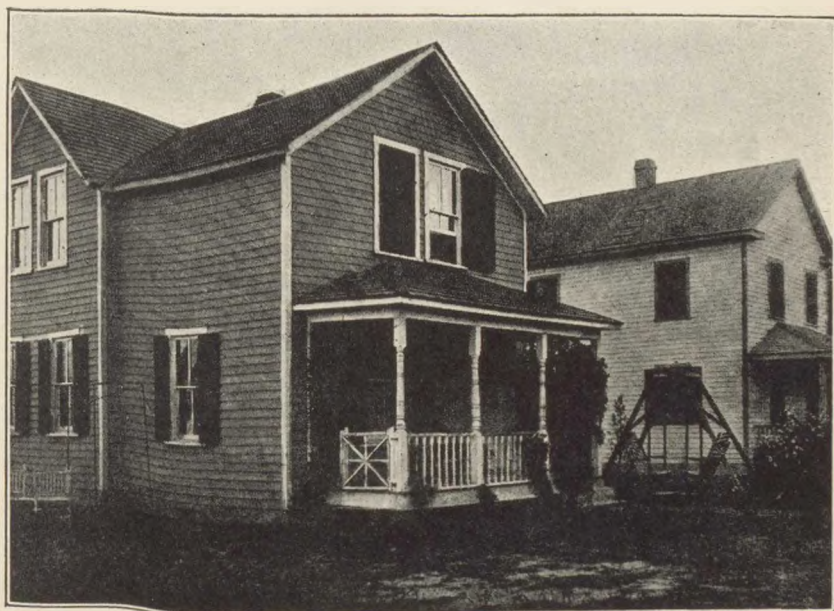

The University Colors are as follows: Burnt Orange (Mandarine) and Light Blue (Azure).

WHAT YOU CAN DO FOR THE ORIENTAL UNIVERSITY.

Do honor to your alma mater. Solicit new students. Buy additional scholarships and sell them. Solicit loans of $5, $25, or $100, or their multiples, on scrips, drawing 5 per cent p. a. interest. Loans will be returned as soon as possible within ten years. Scrips may be exchanged for scholarships or merchandise of the University. Present to the University all your scientific and linguistic books, your instruments, laboratory equipment, printing machinery and types, office appliances, real estate, useful property, stocks and bonds for which there is no special use or legitimate heir. The best you can do, and you can induce others to do, is to grant the Corporation a larger donation or legacy toward an endowment fund, greatly needed. May God guide us to do the right thing at the right time. The University Corporation expects great things from God and wishes to do a great service for men. Let us all try to do our best for the Oriental University, and let us see who can do most, financially, during the academic year 1911-12.

The large original drawing, from which this reproduction is made, hangs on the wall of the Club room at the University. It was created by the eminent artist, Modest Stein Esq., an associate in art of the Oriental University, and it was donated to this Club by the Associated Sunday Magazine, N. Y. Mr. Stein lives at Belmar, N. J.

normal school or seminary, i. e., has studied at least 16 units of 120 periods each, including 3 years' English and Literature (or a foreigner's native language and literature), 1 year Mathematics, 1 year Physics, 1 year History, and at least 2 years' Latin, German, Spanish or French. If such a certificate is not produced an entrance examination in these and other 8 subjects as taught in those schools must be passed. If deficient in any of these subjects, they must be completed at our Academy. Till this has been done, the students are matriculated only conditionally, although they may take college courses only or together with academic courses to fill requirements. None is enrolled as candidate for any degree till all matriculation requirements are fulfilled.

(2) For the bachelor's degree in arts or science, the candidate must complete at least twelve units at the College, i. e., four years after entering the College and two years after beginning university courses, or at the end of the senior year at College.

(3) For the degree of master in arts or science, at least nine units from the beginning of the collegiate junior year are required, with work in residence, although due credit is given for time spent in private research and thesis work.

(4) For the degree of Doctor of Philosophy—which may be earned in Philosophy, Classical Language and Literature, Philology and Comparative Languages, Oriental Language and Literature or Economics and Sociology—18 units from the beginning of the collegiate junior year are required, or 12 units after the bachelor's degree and 9 units after the master degree.

(5) For a bachelor's degree in the professional schools, 16 units after the beginning of the collegiate junior year or the beginning of the professional courses, i. e., the junior and senior college years and three years' professional study, or five years professional study only, are required. In all cases, professional studies must have been entered after completing 2 years at College; otherwise, deficiencies must be filled before degree is granted. All bachelor degrees should be earned in residence, but those who have earned a bachelor degree in residence may under condition that they have duly graduated in those professions earn a professional degree in absentia. All medical degree work must, however, be done in residence. Bachelors may earn any degree (except in medicine), by non-resident graduate courses, for which they have the proper professional qualification, provided the bachelor's degree on which they wish to be admitted has been earned at a good residence college or university school.

(6) At least 6 units, i. e., six subjects studied 5 periods a week for nine weeks in residence, or 4 periods a week for twelve months in absentia, are required for any degree.

(7) Those who have not filled all requirements and are not candidates for a degree but wish to take special study, are called "conditioned students" as long as they pursue also any studies with a view to fill requirements for matriculation, and "special students," if they do not pursue preliminary courses to fill requirements. Conditioned students, by filling all requirements, may become regular students and be admitted to degree courses. Special students are not admitted to any degree.

(8) No exceptions, whatsoever will be made from these rules, nor will any one be graduated who has not done all the work required by us, but due credit will be given for work done at other schools of equal standard, as proven by certificate, true copies of which, under affidavit, must be forwarded by absent candidates.

(9) None will be graduated who have not studied at least three terms (nine months) at this University.
